James T. Brown Forestry Scholarship 2020-2021

Department of Forestry and Wildland Resources

INFORMATION SHEET

The James T. Brown Forestry Scholarship was established in 2006 by the Green Diamond Resource Company to honor its former President, Jim Brown. The fund was set up to benefit students of Humboldt State University seeking a degree in forestry.

Jim, a licensed forester, began his distinguished career with Arcata Redwood Company (which was acquired by Simpson in 1988). He was a member of a logging crew in 1975 and rose to the presidency of Green Diamond in 2004. Jim holds a Bachelor of Science degree from HSU and a Master of Science degree in Civil Engineering from San Jose State University. Prior to joining Simpson, Jim was a lecturer in the Humboldt State College Forestry Department during 1974 and 1975, and is a past recipient of the Humboldt State University Distinguished Alumni Award.

"We believe funding a scholarship in Jim Brown's name at HSU is the most appropriate way to honor a distinguished graduate of the University," said Bill Brown, then president of Green Diamond Resource Company. "Jim's love of knowledge and learning led to his exemplary career with our company and in the forest products industry, he said.
